

The UK Shareholders' Association (UKSA)

UKSA's objects are to promote the interests of individual shareholders and investors within the UK by all possible means.

We aim to assist shareholders and other investors exercise their rights and responsibilities.

We offer advice on how best to safeguard their interests as investors.

We present the views of shareholders and other investors to companies, to the government, to the Stock Exchange and to other appropriate bodies.

We promote improved standards of corporate governance.

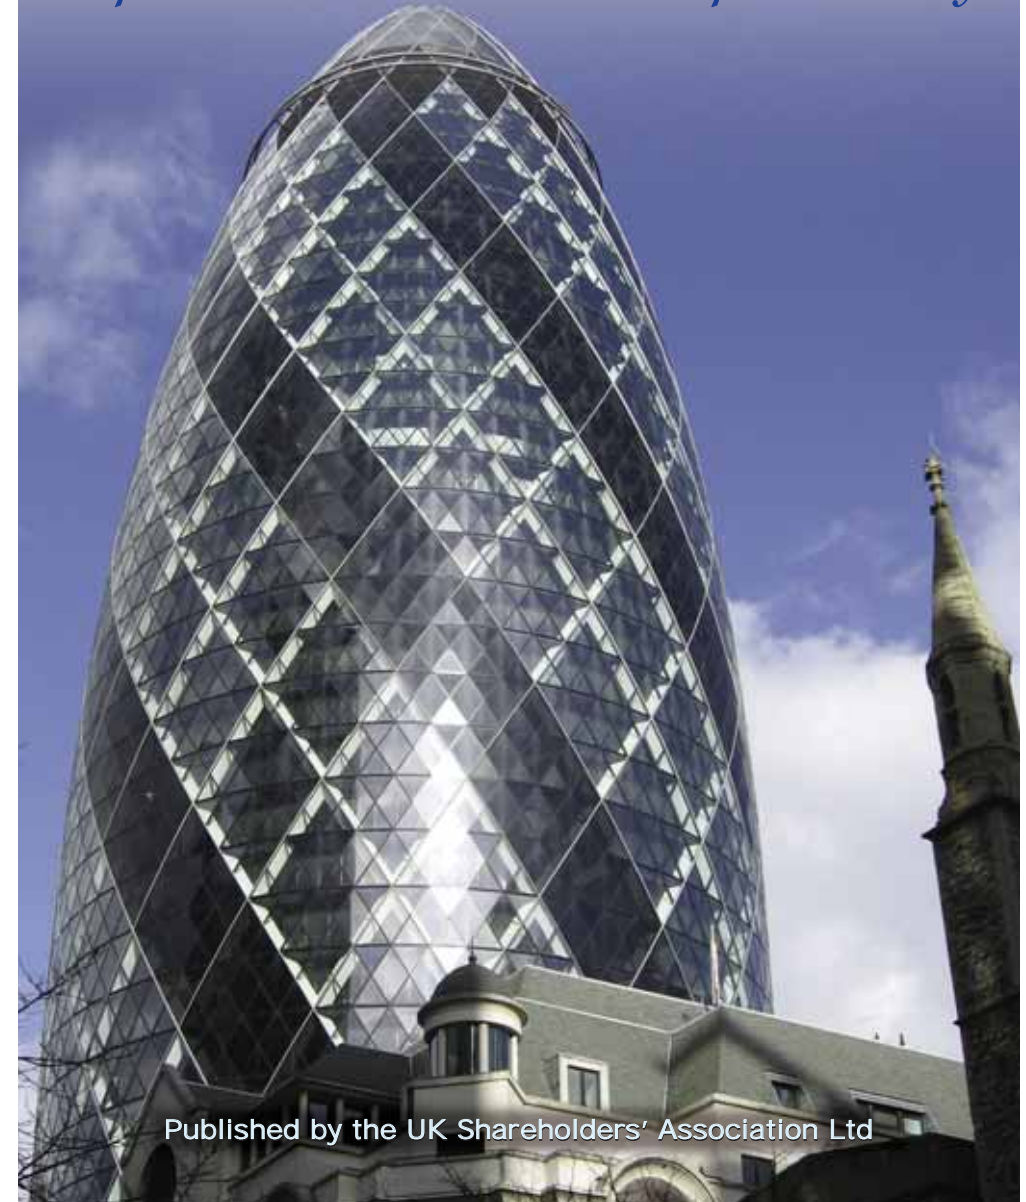

We provide, through regular meetings throughout the UK and through other forms of communication, opportunities for Members to communicate with each other, to compare views and, where appropriate, to formulate opinion.

We encourage the provision of and contribute to investor education.

We conduct research into any aspect of saving, investment and related matters.
